

Submit your blog to blogging directories for free traffic

Blogging is not only the new in thing but it is also quite a money maker. A considerable amount of Googles billion dollar revenue is generated by weblogs which is why many individuals from across the globe have taken to blogging full time as well as part time. People also use other advertisement vehicles but none of them is as popular as Adwords. Google Adwords is the way to go if you are a blogger and have some decent content on your blog, best if it concentrates on a niche. The minimum requirement to be eligible to for Adwords program and be accepted as a publisher is that your weblog should have original content and been around for at least six months. If you have been around for long you may have already submit your blog to major directories and search engines. If not, you can submit your blog to a number of revenue and traffic generating vehicles which we will talk about in this and subsequent articles.

If you are new to the blogging world, your main concern should be to draw in as much traffic through as many sources as possible. Knowing the right keywords can help a lot. There are two ways to attract traffic, free and paid. Free traffic can be attracted in a number of ways but the best methods are to submit your blog to directories, search engines, etc. Advertisement and PPC campaigns are paid methods of attracting visitors to your weblog. Free methods are many but we will guide you to the ones that are most suitable for blogs.

Submit your blog to blogging directories. You can make best use of blogging directories only if you submit your blog under the appropriate category for your weblog. Submit your blog to directories is a great idea because people who come looking to these directories are actually the ones you would like to reach out to as they are genuinely interested in what you blog about. When you submit your blog to such directories make sure you do so under the right category or your weblog may be removed from the listing. Once you have taken the time to make sure you submit your blog in the right category, you can expect visitors who share your interests, this may also help in increasing the revenue you generate from your blog. The biggest benefit of such sites is that you get visitors who would want to find you and remember you too. Go ahead and submit your blog to as many directories and search as you like. More info Skinny | Cute things to say to your girlfriend | Skinny celebs | Top blogs |

About the Author

For more about submit your blog, stop by Blogskinny.com.

Source: <http://ultimatedepot.com>