

Should I Submit my Blog to RSS Feeds?

If you are new blogger you may be asking yourself how do I submit my blog? A common question that new bloggers also ask is where do I submit my blog? Last but not least is the question of why should I submit my blog to a blog directory? Individuals who are new to blogging will have these common questions that they want to ask the experts.

The answer is yes to the question should I submit my blog to blog directories. The number of blog directories that you should submit your blog to can vary according to experts. Some will say to submit to hundreds of blog directories. While yet others will tell you that maybe five to ten are enough. When you ask experts the question why should I submit my blog to directories, they will typically answer that this is a way you can get links to your blog. You really do need links to get more traffic to your blog so it really a good idea to submit your blog to some directories.

You want to get your blog indexed in the search engines and this is one way to do it. Doing this will help the search engine notice that your blog and deem that it has some value to it. People can find your blog more easily if it is indexed on search engines.

So now you may be wondering how do I find blog directories to submit my blog to. Well, for starters you can google that information. This is probably the fastest and easiest way to find blog directories.

You should be warned though, not all directories are created equal. Some of them are very difficult and you have a lot of rules that you have to follow. If you have found one that is difficult just skip it and go on to an easier one.

A lot of new bloggers get overwhelmed when they tell themselves I must submit my blog to hundreds of directories. It is much better for you to begin my only submitting your blog to a few directories at first.

Now that you have this answer settled in your mind, here is another one you will eventually come up with. Should I submit my blog to RSS feeds too?

The answer is yes. This is a great way to get your fresh new blog content noticed for free and all it takes is the initial RSS feed setup. Asking yourself should I submit my blog to RSS feeds and blog directories should both be answered yes.

Try this Submit blog - Solar butterfly lights -

About the Author

Get more related to submit blog, stop in at blogskinny.com/?p=Recent.

Source: <http://ultimatedepot.com>